

You are not alone.

There are many others who have stopped, reversed, or had a failed abortion.
1,734* per year, in fact.

We know this can bring many emotions, including fear of the future, guilt, or shame. We have resources for families and abortion survivors to walk this new path with forgiveness and freedom.

INFORMATION

This can be a challenging time filled with many emotions. We are here to support you. We have data and information that will support your unique journey as the parent of an abortion survivor.

COMMUNITY

Join our community made for families of survivors. A safe place to connect with other women who have gone through this, too.

SUPPORT

Connect with a social worker to come alongside you. You'll have someone to discuss your feelings and challenges that you may be facing, along with knowing how and when to tell your child this piece of their story.

“Stick with your inner voice...
You aren’t alone in whatever struggle you are going through,
and there
is help available.
This isn’t the end
of your story.”

– Shashana
Mom of a survivor

Parenting a child who has survived an abortion is a beautiful and unique journey. These children are often strong and determined, with a will to live that is unrivaled. They are a reminder that no matter what hurdles life may throw our way, we can overcome them.

As parents, we are tasked with the delicate balance of affirming our child’s life while also respecting their privacy and story.
It is not an easy journey, but it is one that is worth taking.

Let us support you in this journey.
